

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A device for cutting pieces of wood to size, in particular meter-long logs, to form log pieces or firewood, has a frame for accommodating meter-long items. The frame comprises spaced-apart holding elements that are designed in a U shape and between which free regions for saw cuts are provided. It is possible for the frame to be shifted from a sawing position about a pivot axis into an unloading position.